

Council to consider housing tract appeal

By Lynne Locke

The Upland City Council will continue consideration Monday night of an appeal of the Planning Commission's disapproval for a development of 50,000 Lewis Homes north of 14th Street between Euclid and San Antonio avenues.

Consideration of the appeal was continued from the July 21 council meeting to allow time for the developer and adjacent residents to find a compromise that would satisfy all parties.

The Planning Commission had denied approval because of the difference in lot and house sizes between the proposed development and existing houses on Harford Place north of the planned development.

The majority of the Planning Commission concurred with Harford Place residents that the proposed development would destroy the privacy and decrease the value of houses on Harford Place.

The commission's decision had noted, however, the proposed lot size is consistent with the master plan and zoning for both the proposed development and the existing homes.

Commissioners suggested the problem could be solved if the developer would provide a buffer zone between the existing houses and the development by "voluntarily" decreasing the number of the homes on the side of the tract adjacent to Harford Place.

In discussion before the City Council, Bob Andreason, engineer for Lewis Homes, said the tracts surrounding the proposed development are based on 10,000 square foot lots, the size proposed for the Lewis tract.

Although Harford Place also is zoned for 10,000 square foot lots, Andreason said the developer had chosen to divide Harford Place into larger 18,000 square foot lots.

Andreason told the council the present development should be determined by the general plan and present zoning rather than requiring Lewis Homes to follow the action voluntarily chosen by the Harford Place developer.

Harford residents also requested the developer be required to install a concrete block wall between the tract and Harford Place to prevent children from trespassing on their way to school.

Residents of 14th Street also expressed concern that two-story houses at the southern edge of the development would block the view of the mountains and that the tract would generate enough traffic to overload 14th Street.

Rene Biane pointed out the present development is one of two 10-acre parcels. Requiring high quality in the present development would encourage high quality when the second parcel is developed, he said.

The Planning Commission ruled the proposed development would not have an adverse effect on the environment.

Also last week the council postponed a decision to require an environmental impact report (EIR) before construction of a third baseball field at San Antonio Park.

The city staff is studying the possibility of constructing the field in the greenbelt area by using 12,000 square feet planned for light industrial development.

In a report to the council City Manager Lee Travers said a baseball field in the greenbelt would place the outfield fence "quite close" to future development south of 14th Street "but would appear to have less impact upon residents of the city than any other location we've been able to find (except San Antonio Park.)"

Area residents requested an EIR before further development at San Antonio Park because of the possibility of increased noise, pollution, and traffic, and environmental damage caused by removal of trees and grading of the land.

Cost of a full EIR is estimated at $2,300-$4,000. Council members had suggested having local college students complete the EIR.

In other action last week the council:

—Requested City Attorney Donald Maroney study the possibility of the city offering a reward for information on the person who destroyed trees along Mountain Avenue south of Foothill Boulevard. Cost of replacing the 29 Ginkgo trees is estimated at $50 per tree.

—Postponed action on open-space maintenance districts for six subdivisions. The city staff recommended the subdividers be required to provide landscaping and maintenance for two years. Previous requirements established maintenance districts which the city would maintain with homeowners bearing the costs.

Cut red tape

Interns aid residents

By Lynne Locke

Six Pomona Valley college students are part of a program "to make government more responsible to the needs of local citizens," according to 65th district Assemblyman Bill McVittie.

McVittie's newly organized "ombudsman" or community advocate program assists West End residents with governmental problems.

"We will try to cut through bureaucratic red tape and put people with problems directly in contact with the people who have the answers," McVittie said.

The program also will benefit the college interns who will have direct experience in dealing with people and real-life problems, he added. Interaction with government agencies also will be invaluable for their future careers, said McVittie who noted such experience isn't available in the classroom.

Intern Sherry Jernigan, a student at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, said many people need routine help with government benefits such as social security, Medi-Cal, welfare, unemployment, and G.I. Bill.

The problems may be routine, but the people are the interesting part of her job, she added.

Interns work with people of all ages from high school students with school or employment problems to senior citizens. They said most problems can be handled over the telephone.

"A lot of times just a phone call smooths problems," commented administrative aide Maurice Ayala, who oversees the program.

Ayala said the most unusual problem involves a man who has been denied parole from prison. Others involved in the same crime have been released although they had prior criminal records and their performance in prison wasn't as good.

"It is quite an experience to deal with the Adult Authority," Ayala said and added so far he has been frustrated in an attempt to get an explanation.

Other problems have involved people whose driver's licenses were being revoked, bank escrows, and automobile repossession.

In problems with private businesses, the interns act as "independent intermediaries to clear the air," McVittie said.

he said jobs are the critical need for the 65th district. Interns have had numerous questions from unemployed people "looking for opportunities to provide a living for their families," he added.

McVittie will introduce a bill to institute a state program to aid people with red-tape problems. Government agencies have grown so overwhelming that a statewide program is needed to improve communication between agencies and people, he noted.

"There appears to be some callousness on the part of government agencies dealing with the public. Too many bureaucrats lose touch with the common people and forget they serve at the will of the people," commented McVittie.

Programs in other states must be examined before McVittie's proposal is drafted. "The cost factor is a significant thing especially with the economy in recession," he said.

McVittie's local program is cost-free since the interns volunteer their service. Interns, in addition to Sherry Jernigan, include Ray Priest, a student at Cal-Poly; Devon LaHar, University of California, Santa Barbara; David LaHar, Harvard; Walt Davis and Heidi Dominick, University of California, Los Angeles.

Although this is the first political work for most of the interns, Devon LaHar researched Senate bills for a Massachusetts state senator last year. She said the community advocate program is more real because she is working with people in a one-to-one relationship.

Ray Priest joined the program to learn about governmental agencies and gain experience in working with people. He has already worked with the state Office of Research to help a person set up a business.

Sherry Jernigan, who hopes to join the U.S. diplomatic corps, said the experience she is gaining in dealing with cooperative and uncooperative bureaucracies will be valuable for her future career.

The interns spend 15 hours each week in the intern program. Although they normally work in McVittie's Pomona office, they will visit the Ontario office when necessary to confer with people. For help or information, call 622-1006.

Gene Barilotti of Upland has been chosen to lead local group meetings of We Care, a self-help group for separated, divorced or widowed women and men. The group meets 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays at the Ontario United Methodist Church.

Volunteers sought

The Upland Recreation Department is looking for adult volunteers to supervise and provide transportation on the children's deep-sea fishing trips. To volunteer contact Harry Sippel, supervisor of volunteer services, 985-0994.

For veterans

Chaffey College lists job openings

Chaffey College has 35 position openings in the Veterans Administration (VA) work-study program. Participants can work a maximum of 250 hours per quarter at $2.50 per hour.

The program has flexible work hours to match class schedules. Candidates for the program must be veterans, with G.I. Bill benefits, carrying 12 or more units.

Veterans who plan to attend Chaffey College for the first time under the G.I. Bill should apply for fall quarter benefits now.

VA takes eight weeks to process applications before initial payments are received by new students.

Information and benefit application forms are available in the veterans service section of the college admissions office. Veterans also must supply copies of their discharge papers (DD214) and marriage and children's birth certificates.

First-time Chaffey College students must obtain permits to register before fall quarter registration which will be held Sept. 3-4 and 9-10. Classes start Sept. 15.

Applications for the work-study program are available in the VA trailer office, staffed 8 a.m.-4 p.m. by Gary Thompson and 1-9 p.m. by Steve Orsco. For information call 987-1737, ext. 356.

Library workshop for handicapped planned

Local handicapped people are eligible to attend a free three-week library workshop for the handicapped, starting Aug. 10 at the University of California at Riverside.

Self defense class to begin

The West End YMCA Monday will begin a men's, women's and children's self-defense and exercise course. Classes will be held 7-8 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.

Conducting the class will be Toby Eggers, who originated his own fighting and exercise system entitled KU-MAH, which he has taught and demonstrated at many clubs and schools throughout the United States.

The first class will be a demonstration and/or participation session and is free for anyone.

For more information, call the West End 'Y', 986-5847.

The workshop will serve as orientation for a two-year training program that prepares handicapped people for jobs as library-media technicians.

Uplander Harriett Genung, retired Mt. San Antonio College dean and librarian, is associate workshop director. Chaffey College head librarian Miriam H. Bowers will serve as instructor.

The workshop is sponsored by the California Community Colleges Chancellor's office and the California State Department of Rehabilitation.

Students and their attendants will live on the UCR campus during the workshop with meals, housing and supplies funded by the U.S. Office of Education.

For information call Helen E. Jones, 598-2811, ext. 347.

CERAMICS — Gwen Meyers paints a ceramic sleigh she made from a mold in a Chaffey College Community Education ceramics class. Students learn slip casting and glaze techniques. Ceramic pieces are fired by instructor Toni Rosato. The class, which meets 9:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Thursdays through Aug. 22, is open for new members. Fall classes start in September. County proposal

Central Avenue will be widened

Central Avenue between Ninth Street and Foothill Boulevard will be widened from two to four lanes under a proposal by the county transportation department.

Part of the nearly one mile of roadway to be widened is within the Upland city limits. The rest is in the county.

The road will be widened from 38 to 52 feet, and minor right-of-way acquisitions will be necessary for completion of the project. A no-parking zone will be established on the east side of Central Avenue between Huntington Drive and Arrow Highway.

In addition, a drainage facility will be installed at Central Avenue and Huntington Drive.

The estimated cost of the street-widening project is $170,000. Federal funds are expected to provide 83 per cent of the total, or $141,100. The rest will be in local matching funds from the county and the City of Upland.

Under a county-city agreement, the county will pay 70 per cent of the local matching funds, or $20,230, and Upland will pay the other 30 per cent, or $8,670. The payments will come from the county's and city's shares of gasoline-tax revenues.

The county is negotiating with the Southern Pacific Railroad, whose tracks cross Central Avenue north of Ninth Street, for new traffic-warning signals.

A spokesman for the county transportation department has indicated that the estimated cost of the devices—$10,000—might be included in the total street-widening project.

Preliminary design data, the approved draft of the negative-impact declaration (which indicates the county's judgment that the project will not have a significantly adverse effect upon the environment), and other information is available from the department offices, 825 E. Third St., San Bernardino.

Comments and objections to the project—including those on the negative-impact declaration—may be made in writing to the county or the Federal Highway Administration. Comments must be submitted by Aug. 15.

If an agency or individual requests a public hearing on the Central Avenue project, one will be conducted in accordance with Federal Highway Administration procedures. Requests for such a hearing must be submitted in writing to the county transportation department by Aug. 6.

Comments on the negative-impact declaration and requests for a public hearing should be directed to J. R. Shone, county transportation director.

If no requests are made, the county will proceed with its plans for the widening project. The plan is expected to be completed in two months, and construction is expected to start late in the year if the plan is approved by the California Department of Transportation.

Upland YW Women install at luncheon

Red Hill Country Club in Cucamonga was the setting on Tuesday for the installation luncheon for 1975-76 of the Upland YW Women.

Rose Martz heads the slate of new officers as president. Serving with her are: Carolyn Bragg, first vice president; Leah Beutel, second vice president; Shannon Goetsch, secretary; and Natalie Blaine, treasurer.

The group is sponsored by the YWCA of the Greater Pomona Valley. Gladys Naylor, executive director of the YWCA of Pomona, was installing officer.

In keeping with the theme, "Getting Involved—Together," plans for the coming year and new committee chairwomen were announced.

Susan Margala, retiring president, was presented with a colorful friendship quilt. Each square was made by one of the club members.

As a special highlight of the luncheon, Mrs. Naylor announced that Carol Van Horst has been named YWCA Woman of the Month for June. The honor was in tribute for contributions to the YWCA and the community. Mrs. Van Horst is founder of the YW Women and a former president.

Women interested in learning more about this group, which provides a variety of programs and activities for members, should contact the YWCA at 622-1269 for further information.

Melody Makers elect new officers

The California Women's Chorus is composed of member-groups from various areas of the state. The individual choruses perform in their own localities as a public service. There is no charge asked for performances, although donations are accepted. The earnings go toward Jurupa Hills Junior High School in San Bernardino.

The singers have appeared recently in various local programs for the Pomona Valley American Association of Retired Persons, the Hillcrest Retirement Home in La Verne and the Ontario Blind Center.

the purchase of music and for music scholarships which are awarded locally. In addition, the choruses come together in a different city each spring for a convention and concert. Donations from the united effort are used for a larger scholarship fund.

The Melody Makers Chorus is open to all women of the area of all ages, who like to sing and are willing to entertain shut-ins, PTA groups, service clubs, mobile home park clubs and other groups who enjoy an informal evening of music.

Rehearsals are held each Monday evening at the Westminster United Presbyterian Church, corner of G Street and Sultana Avenue, Ontario. Anyone interested in joining the singers is asked to call 982-2740. Those interested in engaging the group for a program may use the same number.

HEALTH NEWS...

9 of 10 Headaches Are Not In Your Head!

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

Headaches seem to constantly be in the news.

In a recent issue of Parade, the Sunday newspaper magazine, Dr. Max Murray Bratt, M.D., director of New York's Stuyvesant Polyclinic Headache Clinic, challenged the concept that most headaches are emotional in origin.

In his article describing a study of 3,000 patients over a period of 18 years, Dr. Bratt reported that in over 90 per cent of cases he found that headache was "a referred symptom caused by mechanical derangement of the cervical spine which in turn produces irritation of one or more of the cervical nerve roots and/or intermittent compression of the vertebral artery."

As many of you know, I've always maintained that too many headaches are passed off as resulting from eye strain or emotional stress.

Of course, what Dr. Bratt is saying, in plain language, is that nine of ten headaches are due to spinal misalignment. This figure is well in accord with our study at our offices.

I think the proof of the pudding comes when you see the dramatic results that can be obtained in treating a person with a headache problem. If a person's headache were due to, say, emotional stress, it would obviously take months, if not years, to correct the cause of the difficulty.

But, as I've indicated, headache sufferers can experience immediate relief leading to permanent correction from modern Chiropractic care.

Chiropractors are often asked by patients about the emotional aspects of headaches. I know of an individual whose comment was essentially, "Doctor, I've been told headaches are caused by emotional problems but I don't consider myself a person who is easily flustered or under any great pressures."

The Chiropractor's answer to the man was simply that his problem was not emotional but "mechanical." And mechanical problems can be corrected with proper treatment and care...it's as simple as that.

And I would like to warn headache sufferers who rely on pills and painkillers. A headache tablet relieves only temporarily, a headache. When you come right down to it, they're a poor substitute for what the person with a headache is really after: An end to the headaches, once and for all!

(Note: Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 108 East H Street, Ontario, telephone: 983-1711) (C) ARS 1975

Senators urged to restore flood funds

Unhappy about a $1.4 million cut by Congress in the Cucamonga Creek flood control project, the county board of supervisors Monday urged California's senators to get the funds reinstated in the Senate.

The Ford administration had included in its budget $3 million for work on the Cucamonga Creek project during fiscal year 1975-76 but $1.4 million were slashed from the project in the House version of the budget.

"I understand the funds went to another state for another project," remarked Supervisor Robert O. Townsend of Chino, who asked the board of supervisors to pass a resolution urging Senators John Tunney and Alan Cranston to work for the restoration of the funds.

Earlier this year, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which is building the project, asked for $6 million for the 1975-76 construction but that figure was whittled down by the Ford administration to $3 million.

"I don't know why we're having so much trouble obtaining funding for the Cucamonga Creek project," Townsend said. "It seems like every time we get some funds, somebody comes along with an ax and cuts them."

Townsend stated it is imperative to get the Cucamonga Creek flood control channel finished quickly because of the increasing population,

Students can join bilingual study program

Students are being sought for a Chaffey Union High School District bilingual-crosscultural program that recently received $110,000 in federal (Title VII) funds, the district announced.

The program — Unidos Podemos (United We Can) — will be conducted at Alta Loma, Chaffey and Ontario High Schools. It is open of all students, regardless of their family's dominant language.

"Students will receive the same training and course work as that of the regular school program."

Quesada said interested parents can call him at 986-2711, extension 209.

Upland principal

Violet (Vi) Bryant was recently granted permanent status as principal of Upland Elementary School. The recent appointment by the Upland School District Board of Trustees made Mrs. Bryant the only woman administrator in the 11-school district.

Grid youths eye return to action

While the pro football contingents across the land have already formed as teams and the preps are still a month shy of first practice for the '75 season, the younger football hopefuls of the land are nearing the time when they will start practicing.

Final registration for Upland boys desirous of competing in the "Pop" Warner program will be held Aug. 1 at 4 p.m. at the front entrance to Montclair High School, with physical examinations listed for Aug. 2 at 10 a.m. in the cafeteria.

Basic age range of the program is years 8-13 (as of Aug. 1), with the weight range being from 40 (Tiny Tots) through 120 pounds (Midget).

Montclair preschool

The Montclair Recreation Department will open its fall session of "Mini-School" Oct. 6 at the recreation building.

Mini-School is intended to be a social and educational activity for preschoolers.

Each session will last 12 weeks with observance of all regular school holidays. To qualify, the child must be 4 years old on Oct. 1. A child is eligible only if he has not attended Mini-School previously.

Registration is being held now for interested persons. The fee is $7 and must be paid at the time of registration.

'THE WIND AND THE LION' — Marine Captain Jerome (Steve Kanaly) takes the Bashaw (Vladek Sheybal) prisoner in MGM's "The Wind and the Lion," a United Artist release. The Herb Jaffe production stars Sean Connery, Candice Bergen, Brian Keith and John Huston.

STARS — The daring Lord of the Riffs (Sean Connery) holds Edna Pedecaris (Candice Bergen) captive in "The Wind and the Lion." The adventure film depicts a little known but true incident when President Theodore Roosevelt sent the Marines into Morocco to free a U.S. citizen held for ransom by the feared Riffs. The film was written and directed by John Milius.

'ROUGH RIDER' — Brian Keith is the flamboyant President Theodore Roosevelt in "The Wind and the Lion." Roosevelt "was audacious, energetic . . . and dangerous. He did things his way," according to movie writer-director John Milius.

'The Wind and the Lion'

"Anything to do with Teddy Roosevelt fascinates me. He was audacious, energetic . . . and dangerous. He did things 'his' way," states writer-director John Milius.

It is not surprising, therefore, that Milius, on the prowl for provocative, change of pace film material after making "Dillinger," was drawn to a little known but remarkable event that occurred during the Rough Rider's presidency.

Milius first read about this true incident in "American Heritage," which sketchily referred to the time Roosevelt, quite illegally, sent the U.S. Marines into Morocco to rescue an American family named Pedecaris, held for ransom by a desert chieftain impressively called Mulay Hamid El Raisuli, Lord of the Riff, Sultan to the Berbers.

The incident piqued Milius' interest and later he came across the book, "El Raisuli, The Sultan of the Mountain. His Life Story" written by Rosita Forbes.

"It became clear to me," says Milius, "that Raisuli and Roosevelt were cut from the same cloth. There was a movie inherent in this historic episode and the unique relationship between the two men who never actually met, but intuitively knew each other well. Call it the respect of antagonists, the honorable salute of enemies, the loneliness of larger-than-life men whose daring was reflected in each other's lives."

For seven years no one except Milius expressed an interest in turning the Pedecaris incident into a movie. Then one afternoon, while meeting with producer Herb Jaffe on another project, Milius quoted a line from the Forbes book which sparked Jaffe's interest. Milius told him of the Roosevelt-Raisuli conflict in Morocco and the way he would develop the story. Jaffe decided to package the film.

If the sale was unlikely, so were the eventual financing and distribution agreements. "The Wind and the Lion" is the first coproduction between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Columbia Pictures. Distribution for MGM in the United States and Canada is through United Artists, an entertainment service of Transamerica Corporation.

Taking some liberties with the facts, Milius has made "The Wind and the Lion" an epic adventure story, laced with a dash of humor and a touch of romance, but truly reflecting an era when the great powers were playing a vast and deadly chess game using the lesser nations as pawns.

In the starring roles are Sean Connery as Raisuli; Candice Bergen as Edna Pedecaris, the feisty kidnap victim; Brian Keith as the flamboyant Teddy Roosevelt; and John Huston as the cautious Secretary of State, John Hay.

The lavish production was filmed entirely in Spain where, in many locations, the classic Moorish architecture more accurately resembles the 1904 period of the film than does modern day Morocco.

Two-time Academy Award winning production designer Gil Parrondo transformed Madrid's Palace Hotel hall, card room and salon into the Presidential White House of 1904.

Seville's Alcazar, one of the most perfectly preserved examples of Moorish architecture in the world, was utilized as the Sultan's palace.

Almeria served as the background for the bulk of the picture. The huge battle sequences, the last confrontation of the warriors riding to battle with swords and guns at their side, symbolizing the desperate attempt of the past to resist the "civilized" present, were filmed at Cabo de Gata, a unique seawashed desert area.

The tallest order was to find a deserted beach in Spain. Parrondo came up with the 25-mile-long beach of Matalascanas, located on the Atlantic directly south of Portugal. One of the few totally unspoiled sand and sea stretches left in the western world, it is virtually unknown to tourists and even to most Spaniards.

The U.S. Navy research facility supplied photos of the actual ships of the Atlantic Squadron which brought the U.S. Marines to Morocco and they are faithfully reproduced.

Even the dinner plates used in the Roosevelt birthday scene are authentic and bear the presidential seal, courtesy of the U.S. Embassy in Madrid which loaned its formal dinner service to the production company.

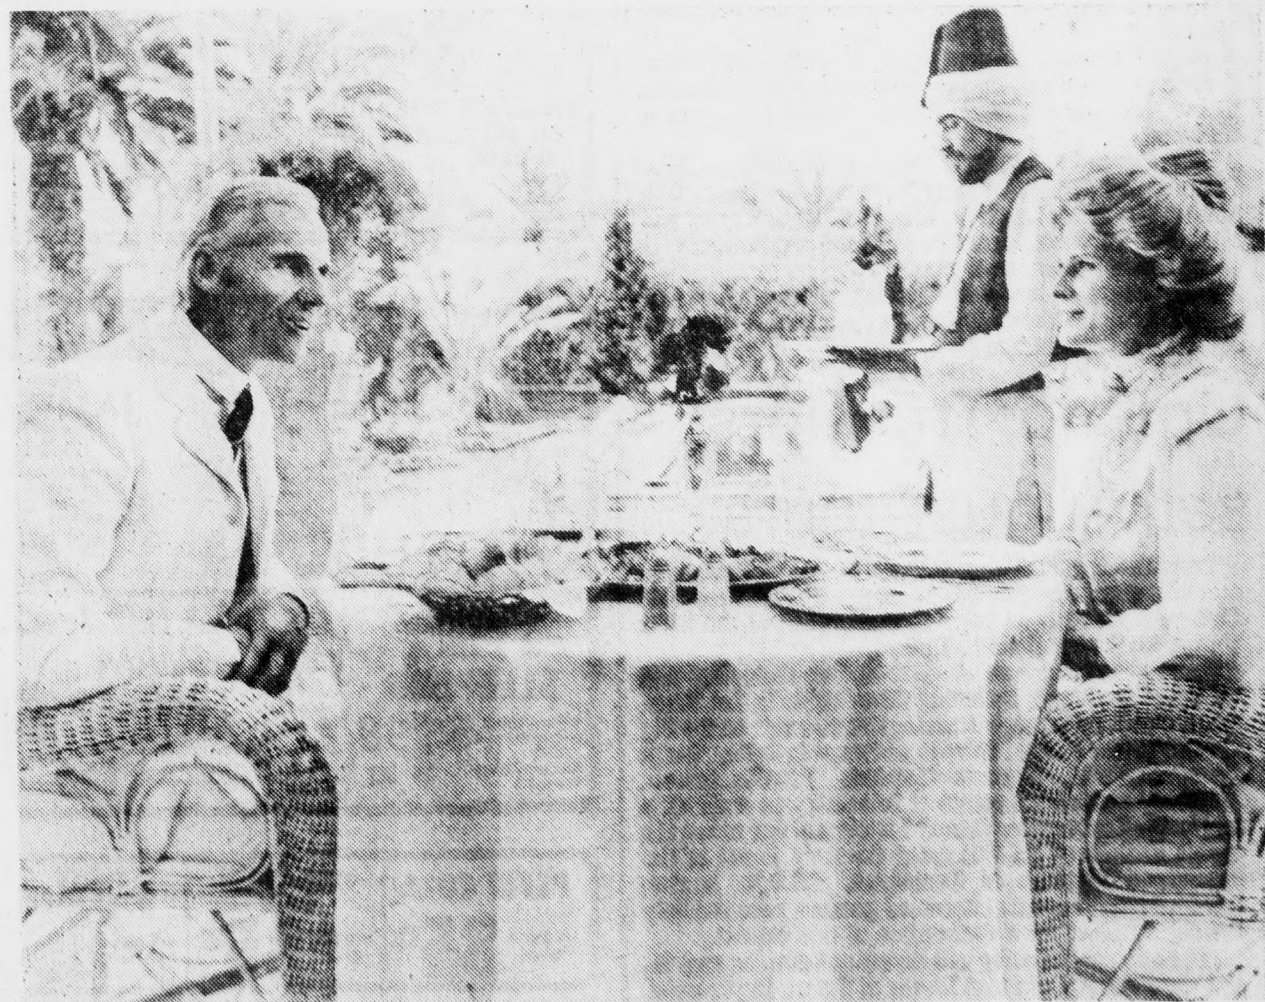

On the other hand, the Marines are only semi-authentic. Half of them came, on their own time, from the U.S. Naval Base at Rota, but the other half are from the Spanish Army. In mixing them there was one major problem. When marching, the Marines always start on their left foot — the Spanish on their right.

"The Wind and the Lion's" multinational crew of technicians, a mixture of American, British and Spanish, included England's highly regarded director of cinematography, Billy Williams, among whose many credits are "Women in Love" and "Sunday, Bloody Sunday." In addition to his camera work, Williams fought and died valiantly in the film, playing the role of Sir Joseph, elegant luncheon companion of Mrs. Pedecaris.

PURSUIT — Ed Raisuli (Sean Connery) the Riff chieftain, pursues his enemy and attempts to behead him in a battle scene. The huge battle sequences were filmed at Cabo de Gata, a unique seawashed desert area in Spain.

DUAL ROLE — In addition to being the cinematographer on the film, Billy Williams plays the role of Sir Joseph, friend of Edna (Candice Bergen). The lavish production was filmed entirely in Spain where, in many locations, the classic Moorish architecture more resembles the 1904 period than modern Morocco.

Mead captures title

Colton's David Mead defeated Riverside's Harold Kopper for the advanced singles title, then combined with Kopper to capture the doubles crown to highlight action in the Upland Table Tennis Club's First Closed Tournament completed Wednesday.

Competition was held at the Magnolia Recreation Center in Upland the past two Wednesdays.

West End winners in the tourney included Ontario's Don Weiland, who claimed Novice Division honors in the singles, and Montclair's Manuel Solorio, who took laurels in the Beginners' Division — also in singles. Mead beat Kopper three straight games for his singles crown, winning decisions of 21-18, 21-17 and 21-18 in a best-of-five format.

Mead had downed Greg McElveen, a Norton Air Force Base serviceman, 21-13, 16-21, 21-17, in the semifinals while Kopper had turned back Ontario's Roby Lange, 21-15 and 21-16.

West Covina's Sam Ahn took the Intermediate

Singles crown by subduing McElveen in four games, 21-16, 17-21, 21-16 and 21-17. Weiland also needed four games to dispose of Pomona's Frits Nadorp, 21-15, 16-21, 21-15 and 21-16 in the Novice finals.

Solorio defeated Montclair's Jerry McCormick three straight, 21-16, 21-9 and 21-12 for the Beginners' title.

Mead and Kopper won a best-of-three series with McElveen and Alta Loma's Don Higgins, 21-15 and 21-11, in the Doubles Division championship match.

Many a youngster accepts everyday feats of agility as a right, but these youngsters of the Linda Vista and Buena Vista schools know that they have to work extremely hard just to do the "ordinary" things. But excellence is a fitting reward and some of them gained honors recently in the State Special Olympic Games at UCLA.

Local duo champs

Victories by John Souvatzis and Lisa Shor spiced the Ontario-Montclair entry in the recent State Special Olympic Games at Drake Stadium, on the campus of UCLA.

Earning second place ribbons were Barbara Leturgy, 50-yard dash, ages 12-13; and Sharrie Mantheg, SLJ, ages 12-13.

Third place ribbons were awarded Peter Houston, 50-yard dash, ages 10-11; David Gidley, 50, ages 8-9; Elliot Clark, SLJ, ages 12-13; Steve Schoenberger, 50, ages 12-13; and Fred Zook, SLJ, ages 12-13.

Musical show at Starlite

Great scenes and songs from Broadway musicals will be featured at the Starlite Patio Theater in the Montclair Civic Center on Aug. 5, at 8 p.m. The program entitled "Summer Musical '75" will be the seventh in a series of eight admission free Tuesday night summer musical events sponsored by the Montclair Department of Recreation.

The musical extravaganza with a cast of over 35 has been produced and directed by C. A. Sheppard of the Theater Arts Department of Chaffey College. The first half of the program will recreate memorable moments from musicals that Chaffey College has done in the past. The second half is a review of great scenes from Broadway popular rock musicals. The show promises to be a real treat for those who love musical comedy.

Summer recess

Museum closes

The Chaffey Community Cultural Center Museum in Upland will be closed for the month of August, according to Beatrice Riggs, president of the board of directors.

At the July board meeting, Mrs. Riggs welcomed new board members and appointed the following committees: Marie Sharp, Robert Williams, Jack Atwood and Kitty Parker, finance; Althea Correll, Floyd Allen, Phyllis Allen, Carolyn Daniels, Kathleen Bernath, Jeannette Wechselberger, Corinne Hanzlick, Olof Snyder and Atwood, program; Floyd Allen, Phyllis Allen and Snyder, exhibits; Phil Born and Atwood, yard; and Harriet White, Mrs. Wechselberger, Phyllis Allen and Floyd Allen, publicity.

Board meetings will resume in October.

'Stuff it' class set

"Hang It or Stuff It" is the summer segment of the creative sewing class conducted by Bobbi Arjo and Betty Miller for the Chaffey College Community Education program.

The class deals with fabric scraps which are used to create items by sewing, gluing or iron-on methods.

Sessions are held from 9 a. m. to noon each Monday in the Magnolia Park Recreation building on the corner of San Antonio Avenue and West 15th Street in Upland.

Students will be assisted in making anything from fabric which can be hung or stuffed such as wall hangings, appliqued headboards, pocketed hampers, mail sorters, pillows, semi-stuffed appliques and anything ones creative interests desire.

Shirleyann Van Dyken also will be teaching a special area on doll making.

Aid sought for woman

Friends of Jo Ann Walker, 22, of 1334 Foothill Blvd., Upland, are trying to raise money to pay for hospital expenses she incurred after a skull fracture sustained in a baseball game at Colony Park July 13.

Miss Walker is a student and has a part-time job, but no hospitalization insurance coverage.

A 20-mile walk-a-thon, in which each mile is sponsored by a donation, has been planned. Also a car wash will be held Aug. 9 at the Exxon station on the corner of Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

Friends have asked for any type of donation, even Blue Chip stamps, to help Miss Walker.

For further information call 985-1957.

Library friends elect officers

The newly elected board of the Friends of the Upland Public Library were welcomed at a recent meeting held at the library.

Those honored will serve for three years. Officers are the following: Ian Brodie, president; Clint Thompson, first vice president; Mrs. Philip White, second vice president; Alfred Voak, recording secretary; Katherine Thomson, corresponding secretary; Robert Thrall, treasurer; and Althea Correll, assistant treasurer.

Directors are Julia Arias, Esther Boulton Black, Mrs. Henry Busch, Phyllis Frost, Margaret Kritzman, Dan Maher, Harry McLaughlin, Mrs. B. Eugene Taylor and Mrs. Warren Wass. Mrs. Edward Bernath, librarian, is an ex-officio member of the board.

Following the business meeting, future plans for several projects were assigned to chairmen. A date was set for the book sale in November.

Upland Travelers set August tours

Tours for August were announced by Myrtle Buchanan, tour director, when members of the Upland Travelers Club met recently in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, Upland.

Tours scheduled are: Aug. 11-16, San Francisco and Valley of the Moon, including three nights in San Francisco, traveling through Roaring Camp, a ride on the Big Trees Narrow Gauge Railroad and stops in Felton, Santa Cruz, Capitola, Begonia Gardens, Pacific Grove, Monterey and others points of interest; and Aug. 25, a trip to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art to see the golden sculptures on loan from the Gold Room of the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad, U.S.S.R. A club spokesperson suggests interested persons read the July Reader's Digest for a description of this exhibit.

The San Francisco trip will depart at 8 a. m. on Aug. 11, and the museum trip also leaves at 8 a. m. Departures are from the parking lot at First Avenue and C Street, Upland.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Buchanan at 983-6902 between 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Mondays through Saturdays.

Strawberries kindle imagination

Inspiration starts decorating

Every profession has its tricks of the trade, and interior designing is no exception.

It helps to know how a professional goes about creating an eye-pleasing room starting with a promising but empty shell. Useful insights can be gained that amateurs — that's most of us — can adapt for our own homes.

Often the hardest part is simple getting started. Where do I begin? Well, you can begin with strawberries.

That's what interior designer Carleton Varney did in a kitchen featured in the June issue of "American Home" magazine.

A hundred other things would have served as well as strawberries for a starting point. The important thing is to latch onto some object or idea that kindles the imagination and can be developed into a full-blown decorating treatment.

Here's how the technique works: The color scheme is ready-made in the colors of the fruit and leaves of the strawberry plant: refreshing, cool greens in a multiplicity of tones from light to dark and varying shades of red, including luscious strawberry pink, a lively, vibrant color.

The built-in bench next to the trestle table in the kitchen eating areas has seat cushions covered in a strawberry print fabric that mingles reds, greens and creamy shades of off-white. The back cushions are done in the same fabric, which is repeated in the draperies at the spacious window.

Potted geraniums adorn the windowsill. The cushions of the chairs are upholstered in crisp green and white.

From plants to trees is a natural move, so plenty of wood goes into the room. The rustic furniture, kitchen cabinets and paneled walls are mellow and rich. Dark-stained, the wood could give the room a somber look, but the large window admits generous amount of light.

To brighten the room further, the designer chooses white appliances, countertops, ceramic tile behind the stove and a no-wax floor in a natural-looking white brick

The glistening surface of the floor catches every ray of sunshine.

The natural-look theme is taking definite form, helped along by such accessories as decorative wicker baskets that also serve a practical purpose, a chopping block table, ferns and hanging plants.

The strawberry motif — handled subtly throughout the decorating process — carries over into the food preparation area in the valance above the sink and the matching wallpaper on the refrigerator enclosure. The finishing touches are added by the fanciful strawberry pattern of the china pieces on the trestle table.

All of the elements of the completed room work together in harmony, and it's no mystery why. The designer has followed a train of creative thought in which the first step suggests the next, which in turn points to new directions, until the final design emerges.

Try Hi-Pro Cereal for health

The importance of a good breakfast is often repeated, but many of us ignore this good advice. Blood sugar levels fall during the night and can cause fatigue if not replenished. A good breakfast gives us quick energy to start the day and enables us to stay mentally alert.

What constitutes a good breakfast? It should fulfill 1/4 to 1/3 of our daily food requirements for protein, calories, vitamins and minerals. Fruit or fruit juice should always be included, but serve a variety throughout the week to avoid monotony.

The traditional American bacon and egg breakfast is not necessarily the best for you. Doctors are recommending that everyone, regardless of age, lower their intake of foods rich in cholesterol and saturated fat; bacon and eggs are high on this list. A modified-fat diet is important for it can help you to reduce the risk of heart disease in later life.

There are many tasty and nutritious breakfast foods that don't include high-cholesterol eggs. For example, High Pro Cereal, a blend of sweetened cooked rice and pot cheese, is a great change-of-pace morning treat. Served with raspberry preserves and skim milk, this high protein cereal is deliciously unique.

Round out your breakfast menu with fresh melon or fruit juice, whole wheat toast and coffee.

High Pro Cereal
Makes 4 servings
1/2 cup uncooked rice
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup pot cheese
1/4 cup sugar
Raspberry preserves
Skim or filled milk

Cook rice according to package directions except use 2 tablespoons margarine. Stir in cheese and sugar. Heat through. Serve topped with a spoonful of preserves and pour on milk to taste.

A good breakfast is necessary and this High Pro Cereal is just the answer to pep, vim and vitality for the day. Add to this fruit juice, whole wheat toast and coffee, and you can face just about anything the morning has to offer.

Tips for sensible housewife

These days, it's anybody's guess how much higher food prices will climb. Or how fast — as illustrated recently by a national women's magazine that went to press just as sugar was starting its upward spiral. When copies reached the newsstands, the magazine's predicted "high" had already been exceeded by 10 to 15 cents per pound in many areas.

One thing today's sensible homemaker doesn't guess about is the need to make every penny count at the supermarket. All too often, however, her concern seems to stop at the check-out counter, according to Pauline Church, home service advisor to a leading housewares manufacturer.

"Mastering budget control at the grocery store is only part of the battle," she pointed out. "Another is combatting waste by safeguarding the flavor and nutritional value of the food you buy. That's why proper handling and storage of foodstuffs at home is now more critical than ever before."

It's true, for example, that the lower per-serving cost of certain foods purchased in large cans, bags, or boxes, can add up to appreciable savings. But if you wind up having to discard a portion that's spoiled or no longer appetizing, there go your savings — right down the drain.

"Devote just a little more time and care to putting foods away — after meals as well as after shopping," Mrs. Church suggested, "and you'll find that it makes a difference in how far the grocery budget goes."

If you own a freezer, you know the importance of maintaining correct temperature and using airtight containers to protect foods against drying out. But what about items you store in the refrigerator and pantry? Many of these, too, will stay fresher longer if given similar protection. Failure to use leftovers before they spoil was the problem cited most frequently in a refrigerator usage study once conducted by a Corporation, Chicago, manufacturer of plastic food containers.

It was generally agreed, among the 500 home economists surveyed, that improved storage practices — using containers of the right size and type, better labeling of contents, and taking inventory more often — could greatly help this situation.

"Today's no-frost refrigerators call for a bit of extra caution," Mrs. Church pointed out. "Because the circulating cold air tends to pick up moisture from any available surface, it's even more important to keep airtight covers on most foods and all liquids."

"Also, when a refrigerator doesn't have to be emptied and defrosted regularly, the chance of pushing things to the back and forgetting them is that much greater," she added.

Frozen vs. fresh

Vegetables are a "nutritionally good buy" any time of the year. In season, many fresh vegetables should be less expensive.

But this is not always so. First, be sure the "fresh" vegetables are really fresh. Then compare the cost per serving with frozen vegetables. The latter may be the better buy even when the vegetable is in season.

685 W. FOOTHILL, UPLAND (CORNER OF SAN ANTONIO & FOOTHILL)

Celebrate the arrival of summer with fresh California peaches atop delicate dessert pancakes. For a crunchy garnish, add a sprinkling of almonds.

You can always tell when summer has returned by all the delectable-looking fresh fruits arriving again in local markets. The season's first peaches are now being shipped by California peach growers (a bit late this year due to cool spring weather conditions) and will be here to enjoy all summer long, through September.

The first peach varieties — Springcrest, Springgold, Early Coronet, Royal May and Merrill Gemfree, to name a few — are wonderful to enjoy fresh and whole just as they come from sunny California orchards. But these first peaches are also excellent for baking, salad and dessert making, topping breakfast cereals, and slicing into all the classic peaches 'n cream dishes.

Here's another "peachy" summer dessert you'll want to try. Crepes Indie with Peach Sauce is easy to prepare, a light, lovely summer dessert that can be partially prepared days in advance and served with just a few last minute preparations.

Fresh California peach slices are gently simmered in a honey-cinnamon spiced sauce then spooned over paper-thin pancakes that are made ahead and kept frozen until needed.

You can slice the fresh peaches and have them ready ahead of time, too. Just be sure to sprinkle them with lemon juice or ascorbic acid mixture to keep their "peachy" color fresh and bright. And, it's really not necessary to peel fresh peaches for this dessert, or for any other use, because most fresh California peaches are defuzzed before they come to market. Besides, the tender peach skin adds more flavor and a pretty "blush" to the crepes.

Home economists from the California Fresh Peach Advisory Board recommend buying peaches that are firm-ripe to the touch. They'll ripen in a few days on the kitchen counter. And remember, don't be fooled by that pretty rosy colored blush. It's a sign of variety, not ripeness. Instead, choose peaches with a uniform creamy yellow background color.

Be sure to keep plenty of luscious ripe peaches in the refrigerator for refreshing snacking all summer long.

For additional exciting ways to use and serve fresh California fruits this summer, write for your free copy of a colorful new 48-page booklet. Prepared by the growers of California fruits, this beautifully illustrated booklet contains more than 100 tested recipes. Please send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to "FRUITS OF SUMMER", P.O. Box 4640, Sacramento, California 95825.

Break old rule with this salad

Casual cookouts are in full swing for the summer months. Everyone invited to bring a covered dish to a barbecue likes to take something special that will draw raves. One such will be a different banana salad. Too often we lock in ideas about how to serve or mix certain vegetables and fruits. This salad tastefully illustrates that old rules are meant to be broken — or is that eaten? It also is a quickie dish to prepare for unexpected drop-ins and refreshing to eat on hot days.

Different Banana Salad
4 cups torn salad greens (spinach, chicory, escarole, lettuce)

1/2 cup pitted ripe olives (sliced or whole)
1/2 cup fresh grapefruit sections*

1/2 cup halved or whole cherry tomatoes

2 bananas, sliced
In large bowl combine salad greens, olives and grapefruit sections. Peel bananas, cut into slices and add with French dressing. Toss lightly to mix well and serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

(*Well drained canned or chilled grapefruit sections may be used.)

French Dressing
1/4 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dried leaf basil
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

In small bowl, combine all ingredients. Stir vigorously or beat to mix well. (If desired, use 1/3 cup prepared French or Italian dressing.)

Church News

Church news to be published in The San Dimas Press, The La Verne Leader, The Bulletin (Diamond Bar-Walnut-Rowland Heights), The Cucamonga Times, The Upland News of The Montclair Tribune should be sent to the Church Editor, Bonita Publishing Co., P.O. Box 593, Ontario 91764 at least one week in advance.

Upland Foursquare

The Rev. Vivian Twyford, pastor Upland Foursquare Church, has announced that Brant Baker and his Shekinah Fellowship team will return for another of his special divine healing services 7:30 tonight at the church sanctuary, 205 N. Campus St. The public is invited.

The talented young singers and musicians, numbering more than 100, represent various Southland churches, said Miss Twyford. They also participate with Brant in praying for the sick and afflicted at the close of the service of testimonies and message.

Shekinah Fellowship group, to conduct its first meetings next month in Las Vegas, is seen weekly at 7:30 a.m. and noon Sundays on KCOP-TV, channel 13.

Christian Chapel

The Archers, a popular young Christian music group, will be in concert 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5 at Christian Chapel, 1920 S. Brea Canyon Cut-Off Road, Walnut.

The group consists of brothers, Tim and Steve Archer, Bill Masters, Nancy Short, Tim Jaquette, Louie Duchane and Kelly Bagley. As well as recording two albums, during the last four years, they have spent more than 70 per cent of their time traveling all over the country as well as Canada and a tour of Europe.

San Dimas Drive-In

Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday during both morning services at the Valley Community Drive-In Church, Lone Hill Avenue and Covina Boulevard, San Dimas. The 8:30 a.m. early service will be for the drive-in only and the 11 a.m. is for both walk-in and drive-in congregations.

Pastor Melvin De Vries will speak at both services on a topic appropriate for communion entitled, "The Good Cheer of Victory." Sunday School for all ages will be at 9:30 a.m.

Special singing and a community singalong will begin the Sunday Evening Under the Stars program at 8 p.m., followed by the dramatic film "Eighteen."

Christ Lutheran

Using Jesus' caution about counting the cost of following Him, the sermon announced for this Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church, 5500 Francis Ave., Chino, will be "Christian 'Cloud Nine.'" The message will be given at both the 8:15 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. services by the pastor, Dr. A. L. Plueger. Refreshments will be served in the fellowship hall after services.

Bible classes for all ages will be held at 9:30 a.m. Adults will meet in the church for a visual presentation of Paul's third missionary journey.

First Baptist

"If My People," a musical by Jimmy and Carol Owens which serves as a call to prayer intercession on behalf of the nation, will be presented by a new musical group called "The People" 6 p.m. Sunday at First Baptist Church of Ontario, 1305 N. Euclid Ave.

The group consists of several young adults. These include Edwina Chin, Ted Soto, Bob and Marge Cason, Joe and Cathy Wagner, David Scott, Cornelius Jongsma, Frances Crosin and Paul Steel. The production is directed by Linda Irby who is church director of music.

Campus Life

Mark Rayburn of Limpic & Rayburn will be featured along with the Lamb's Players at Campus Life Saturday Night, Aug. 9 at Citrus College Auditorium. Lamb's Players will be performing "The Hound of Everyman," a medieval style comedy. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Hounded by Death, tormented by Satan and his demons of drunkenness, riot, disease, the occult and lust, protected by the watchful eye of a guardian angel, Everyman wages the battle of life in search of truth. At the conclusion of the play, Everyman's friend introduces him to his new friend, Jesus. Everyman's fear of death is no longer and Satan is defeated.

an annual fund raising event to help support the elementary school, will be held Aug. 15-17 at the church. It will feature Polka and Mariachi bands, an electric car display, carnival rides and games and food booths.

Meets children's crisis needs

The Inn: shelter care home

The Inn, a shelter care home for children, "is really meeting the crisis needs of children in the West End," according to Al Sadler, institutional coordinator for the Department of Public Social Service (DPSS).

The Inn, which is sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Upland, has been named by the DPSS to receive West End children who would otherwise be placed in the dependency unit of the San Bernardino County Juvenile Hall.

The shelter care home was created a year ago to provide temporary and emergency care for children, from infants to teenagers. Children waiting permanent placement in foster or group homes previously were sent to the dependency unit at juvenile hall.

Church gets staff additions

Three new staff members will join the staff of the First Baptist Church of Ontario during August.

On Aug. 1, Victor R. Gordon will begin his duties as associate minister and on Aug. 21, the Rev. Virgil and Mrs. Lynn Nelson will be added to the staff as education consultants.

Their addition brings the total program staff of the church to seven.

"There is such a need for this type of project and the reward is so great," Sadler said as he commended John and Nancy Barnhill for their patience and understanding with children who are living through a period of crisis.

The normal family life of the Barnhills and their two young daughters helps the lonely, confused children temporarily placed at the Inn, according to the Rev. Robert Gillogly, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Upland.

The Inn, which is named for the inns mentioned in the Gospel of Luke, was purchased through memorial gifts. Continuing operations are funded through benevolence money.

In recognition of his work for neglected children Rev. Gillogly recently joined Dr. Karl Menninger in a United Presbyterian study center seminar, "Conversations with Karl Menninger." Menninger founded the Topeka, Kansas psychiatric center and heads the board of directors for The Villages Inc., which ministers to neglected children.

Gospel music talent search

A gospel music talent search will be held at Cal-Expo Aug. 22-24 for gospel singers and writers. This is a first for gospel music in California.

Entry deadline is Aug. 4 for entry blanks and more information, write to: Sound of Joy, 6625 Sunny Lane, Carmichael, CA 95608.

Theology school

Workshop in religion set

The School of Theology at Claremont will offer a summer workshop on Religion and Public Education Aug. 4-15, 8 a.m. - noon. Instructor for the course will be Dr. Joseph Forcinelli.

Because of a renewed interest by young people in religious ideas and ideals, there is a movement to incorporate studies "about" religion into the public school curricula. Although a U.S. Supreme Court decision bars prayer in public schools, it does not bar teaching about religion. Many school districts throughout the U.S. offer courses in comparative religion or the history of religion usually at the secondary level.

Dr. Forcinelli's course will involve a study of rationales, strategies and methodologies in teaching about religion in the public schools, a review of course options and structures, an examination of licensing standards and requirements for the State of California and other states and the prospects for teaching positions.

Dr. Forcinelli holds a B.C. in Theology from Berkeley Baptist Divinity School, an M.A. in Education from Claremont Graduate School and a Ph.D. in Religion from Claremont Graduate School. Dr. Forcinelli has served as a public school teacher, a missionary educator to Africa, a parish minister and a university professor. Since 1964, he has taught religion, philosophy and humanities at Claremont High School. He has served as consultant in the area of academic studies of religion in the public schools for the State of California and nationally.

Further information about this workshop and other summer courses being offered may be obtained from the Office of Admissions, School of Theology at Claremont, Foothill Boulevard at College Avenue, Claremont 91711. Telephone (714) 626-3521.

Bible School to be held in Walnut

Vacation Bible School will be held at Christ The King Lutheran Church, 555 N. Gartel Ave., Walnut. The theme this year is "God's People Today." This fulfilled week will start Aug. 4.

Classes will be held 9-11:30 a.m. each morning for children entering kindergarten through third grade. A nursery class will also be held at this time for 4 year olds. Sessions will be held 1-3:45 p.m. each afternoon for those children entering fourth-eighth grades. The fee is $1.50 per family.

The staff for each class consists of a lesson teacher, a craft project teacher and teacher aides. Refreshments will be served.

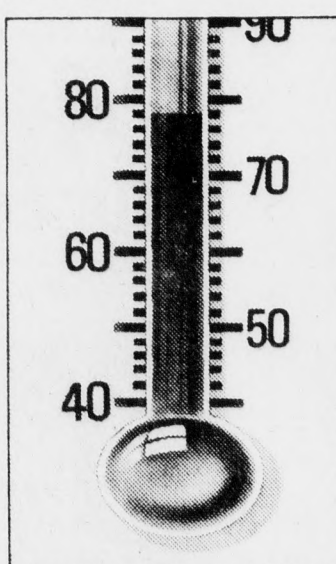

Parents wishing to register their children may do so 8:30 a.m. Monday. For more information call the church office (714) 595-3819.

7 WAYS TO CUT YOUR AIR CONDITIONING COSTS.

KEEP TEMPERATURE AT 78°

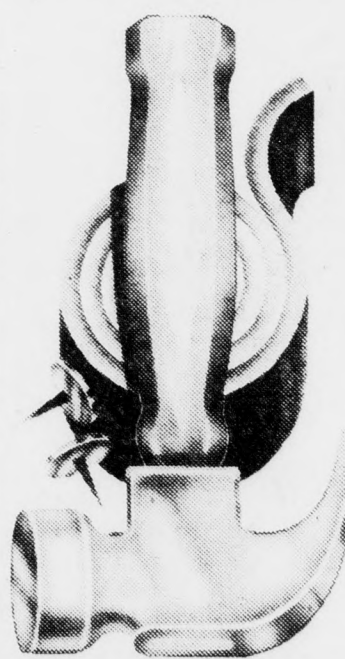

During hot summer months, you can cut air conditioning costs substantially by cooling a room—or your whole house—no lower than 78°. It could cost about 30% less for air conditioning if you keep the temperature at 78° instead of 70°. If you use a room air conditioner, hang a thermometer on the wall. Check it to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember, air conditioning is not to make you cold—just comfortable.

INSULATE YOUR HOME

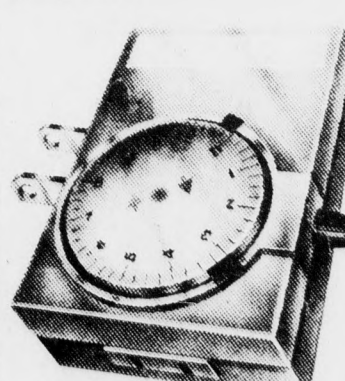

If you do not have insulation in your attic—or if you have too little—you could be using up to twice the energy necessary for air conditioning your house. (More energy to heat it, too.) Insulation can be blown into most attics. It's an investment which merits your consideration. For information, see your local insulation contractor. And don't forget to weatherstrip doors and windows.

CONSIDER AN AUTOMATIC TIMER

Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you go to work and turn it on before you come home.

4.

INVESTIGATE AN ENERGY-SAVING UNIT

If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) numbers. The higher the number shown, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

5.

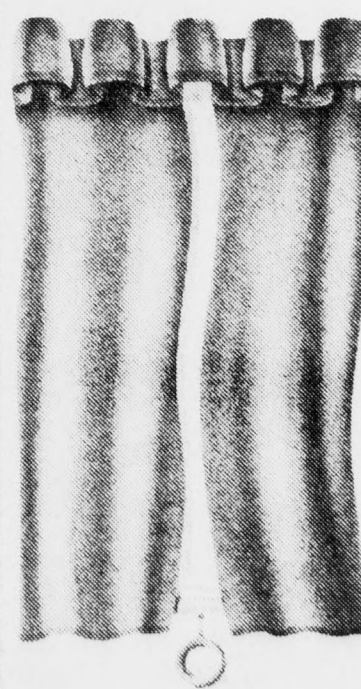

COOL ONLY ROOMS IN USE

If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. Of course, no matter what system you use, whenever you air condition keep the outside doors and windows closed throughout the house.

6.

KEEP THE HEAT OUT

When the children (or family pet) go out, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.

7.

KEEP EQUIPMENT CLEAN

Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

The cost of electricity has been going up, primarily because of the soaring cost of the foreign oil we must buy to burn in generating plants. The increasing costs of oil and the additional amounts we have had to buy are responsible for the total increase in the price of electricity since last summer. Your air conditioning could use more energy than any other home appliance this summer. So use it wisely. Conserve. For other ways to conserve, write for our free booklet, "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, California 91770.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Michael A. Mata, son of Mrs. Josephine Mata of Upland, is serving with the Church of the Nazarene Student Mission Corps this summer as a short-term assistant. Holder of an A.B. degree in Biblical literature from Point Loma College in San Diego, he currently is a graduate student in the department of religion at that college. Holder of three scholarships, Mata is on the dean's list for academic achievement and a member of the Student Affairs Committee, Associated Business Students and Sigma Phi Mu honor society.

Identify insects, then control

Exciting new strategies for insect control are on the horizon for the home gardener. These include sex attractants for mites, various biological controls and perhaps most unique — synthetic aphids.

These artificial aphids produced from nutrient solutions are designed as a food supply for predator insects such as lace wings and lady beetles. In the past it has been difficult to maintain a sufficient supply of these beneficial insects because they die off or move away as soon as their food supply, such as aphids, gets scarce.

Yet despite these promising developments, most entomologists agree that these techniques are far from being ready for the home gardener. To date, the wise use of existing insecticides is still the most reliable and easiest control measure available.

Part of the tricks to successful gardening is getting to know which bugs are really a problem in your garden and knowing how to control them. Proper insect identification helps assure correct timing and placement of sprays.

The most troublesome insects for the Western gardener are mites, aphids, tent caterpillars, cutworms, thrips and scales.

MITES are perhaps the smallest and most numerous garden pest.

One species or another feeds on almost every garden plant. Red spider mites, common here, can be identified by their fine webs.

Adult mites have four pairs of legs, no wings, are 1/60 inch long, pale yellow, green or red and may have two dark spots.

Mites give the underside of leaves a mealy appearance with black specks. Their sucking action takes color from the upper surface; leaves become gray, yellow or reddish and then drop. Mites multiply rapidly in warm humid weather so plants with little air circulation are most susceptible.

To control mites, spray when populations become numerous with a miticide (dicofol) or apply a systemic insecticide (dimethoate). If mites are a traditional pest in your area a dormant spray (diazinon) and oil will effectively reduce populations before they have a chance to build up.

The next leading offenders are APHIDS (sometimes called plant lice) often the first to be found on shrubs each spring. These soft-bodied creatures are usually green, but also brown, yellow, pink or black — about 1/8 inch long when full grown. Aphids can be powdery, fluffy, gallmaking, even wooly — the latter with long threads of white wax on their bodies.

Aphids feed by sucking the sap from plant cells. This frequently results in loss of color and vigor; sometimes curled and crinkled leaves indicate their presence, or malformation of buds, flowers and fruit.

Hardly a plant can be absolutely immune to one or more of the aphid species. Honeydew, a sweet colorless sticky secretion of these insects, attracts ants and serves as a medium for the growth of a black, sooty mold.

Best control measures are regular applications of Spectracide or Cygon. A systemic can be applied as a soil drench rather than a spray. To the environmentalist this has certain advantages although as a general rule systemic insecticides are more toxic than sprays.

Aphids are one pest that facilitate non-chemical controls. When populations are small, some gardeners attempt to wash them off the foliage. This can be effective but too much water can damage blossoms and encourage mildew on plants like roses.

Ladybugs also will control aphids. The problem with biological control in the home garden is getting enough predator insects to control the rapid reproduction of pest insects.

TENT CATERPILLARS are identifiable by the well-known white web or tent in the forks or crotches of trees which are used for nesting. When full-grown, the insect is about 2 inches long and very hairy. The tent caterpillar is brownish-black with a white stripe down its back bordered by red, and two rows of blue spots. It defoliates fruit and shade trees, roses and other ornamentals.

Spectracide or Sevin (carbaryl) most often are recommended for control of these leaf-eating insects. If spraying, make sure your pressure is strong enough to penetrate the net. When nets are small, gardeners can soak a cloth in the insecticide and lay it over the net. Within a week the insects should be under control.

Infested branches also can be cut or burned out. However, burning often introduced more plant damage than the insects themselves.

Praying mantises also are known to control tent caterpillars. Again, it will take a large population of these predators to control the caterpillars. Unfortunately, praying mantises also are known to eat honeybees.

Then there are the CUTWORMS that come out at night to chew off plant stems and newly set seedlings at ground level, especially on vegetables and flowers. They are smooth, fat, dull-gray, brown or black caterpillars. Some species are spotted, others have stripes varying from 1-1/4 to 2 inches when full grown. During the day they stay curled up in the soil, or hide under trash. The adults are sombercolored moths and are readily attracted to lights at night.

Spectracide or Sevin are recommended for best control.

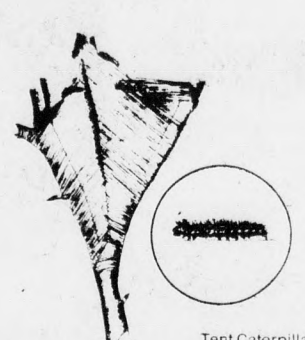

THRIPS have many species, which usually attack flowers and vegetables, such as roses, gladiolus, onions and beans. They are tiny creatures, the largest about 1/8 inch in length, usually brown or yellow.

Thrips damage leaves and buds, giving leaves a stippled appearance which resembles mite infestation damage; thrips leave brownish dots of excrement wherever they feed. On flowering plants, the buds show color but fail to open, or are streaked and discolored when they do open.

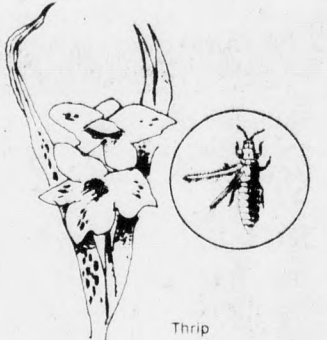

Thrips can create problems throughout the season so control measures must be repeated as long as they are present.

Proper insect identification is the first step in controlling insects in your garden. This chart shows the six most troublesome insects for Western gardeners: mites, aphids, tent caterpillars, cutworms, thrips and scales.

Close-up enjoyment

Add appealing plants

As summer rolls into full swing, patio plants and plants for the outdoor living area take on a new importance. Summer gardens are to be lived in, rather than looked at — and this is a good time to add some appealing plants for close-up enjoyment.

Several different kinds of dwarf citrus combine a well-groomed quality with lush evergreen foliage, fragrant blooms and colorful, edible fruit. Dwarf Meyer Lemon, for instance, features fruit and blooms at the same time. If you plant one in a tub on the patio, the fragrance will draw people to it.

Another fragrant charmer is the gardenia. With foliage as glossy-green as a camellia, and fragrant white flowers, it makes a beautiful conversation piece for the July patio. Gardenias thrive in a rich acid soil, plenty of sun (except in the hot valley areas) and water. Other fragrant plants to consider are the profuse blooming jasmine vines and scented leaf geraniums.

Once you've followed your nose to the outdoor living area, you'll enjoy it twice as much if you have bright flowers spilling from hanging baskets and pots — as well as groupings of containers on the ground, says the California Association of Nurserymen. Nurseries have ready-to-hang creations and already-blooming flowering choices that provide immediate color.

Tour the world via gardening

Going on a world tour may seem like an idle dream to many Californians. However, a tour of plant material from far away places can be as close as your own backyard!

Californians are fortunate in that they are able to grow plants from all over the world that came here so many years ago have settled down like natives, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

It's fun to train a small pine in the Japanese manner or hang colorful flower baskets from above — in the tradition of the patios of Spain. And a fruit tree espaliered against a sunny wall, captures a little of the flavor of a French provincial garden.

Browse through a local nursery and you'll find such far-flung neighbors as Persian silk tree, Brazilian skyflower, Italian stone pine and Madagascar jasmine. An Australian bottle brush is no more unusual in the nursery than a California native ceanothus. Chinese hollies, New Zealand tree ferns and Scotch heather are usually available and are excellent choices for the landscape. Gardeners who wish to create a little bit of sunny Italy, Spain or the Greek Isles have it easy — climates here and there are similar and plants feel right at home. Olive trees are almost a tradition in parts of California; oleanders and rock roses are at home on warm, dry hillsides — as they are in their native Mediterranean habitat. Lemon trees, a part of many Italian gardens, thrive here, too.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF SANITARY SEWER

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Secretary of County Sanitation District No. 21 of Los Angeles County, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the District, 1955 Workman Mill Road, Whittier, California 90601, up to the hour of 2:00 P.M., on August 26, 1975, for the construction of Emerald Avenue Trunk Sewer beginning at Emerald Avenue and Bowdoin Street, thence northerly in Emerald Avenue to Base Line Road in the City of La Verne, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The construction consists of approximately 1350 linear feet of 10-inch and 12-inch diameter vitrified clay pipe sewer, complete in place, including appurtenant work.

All work is to be done in accordance with the plans and the Standard Specifications for Public Works Construction, 1973 Edition, complete with the District Amendments dated October 1973, thereto, which are on file in the office of the Chief Engineer of the District, 1955 Workman Mill Road, Whittier, 90601, to which plans and specifications bidders are referred for further information.

Each bid must be on proposal forms to be obtained at the office of the District at the above stated address and must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bond with an approved surety company as surety, payable to the Chairman of the Board of Directors of County Sanitation District No. 21 of Los Angeles County, for an amount equal to at least ten percent of the amount bid as a guaranty that the bidder, if successful, will enter into a contract satisfactory to the said Board of Directors for the doing of the work contemplated and the successful bidder will be required to file good and sufficient bonds for the faithful performance of the contract and for the payment of laborers and materialmen.

Proposal forms, plans, amendments to Standard Specifications for Public Works Construction and Special Provisions, if any, may be obtained without charge from

Richard Chamberlain to return to Ahmanson

Richard Chamberlain and Dorothy McGuire have been set to star in Tennessee Williams' compassionate, award-winning drama, "The Night of the Iguana," for the Center Theatre Group at the Ahmanson Theatre next season. The production will be the second attraction in the 1975-76 subscription season at the Ahmanson Theatre and will play Dec. 19 through Jan. 31, 1976.

Richard Chamberlain, who will be making his third starring appearance for the CTG-Ahmanson, will portray the Reverend T. Lawrence Shannon, a neurotic, defrocked minister. Miss McGuire, in a rare Los Angeles stage appearance, will appear as Hannah Jelkes, a lonely spinster, who travels the world with her grandfather, painting on-the-spot portraits for their living. Tennessee Williams' "The Night of the Iguana" was first presented on Broadway in 1961, and was critically acclaimed as "an awesome and powerful new drama." It subsequently won the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for Best American Play. The play is frequently described as a poetic mood drama and takes place in the summer of 1940 in a rather rustic and bohemian Mexican hotel on a hill over Caleta, the "morning beach" of Puerto Barrio. Thrown together in this setting is a tough, lusty widow, who runs the hotel; the Rev. Shannon (Richard Chamberlain), who is currently a tour director of a busload of Baptist ladies, up in arms because he has led them off the comfortable advertised route; and Hannah Jelkes (Dorothy McGuire) and her poet-grandfather.

Although Williams' drama follows several characters and their relationships with each other, he is chiefly concerned with the relationship of Shannon and Miss Jelkes. There is a strange and immediate rapport between the discredited cleric and the lonely artist. The play's most poignant moments — scenes of enormous compassion — grow out of the understanding of these two people and their mutual need for companionship and identification.

Richard Chamberlain's versatile career reached a high point two seasons ago at the CTG/Ahmanson Theatre with his remarkable performance in the title role of "Cyrano de Bergerac," for which he won the Los Angeles Drama Critics Circle Distinguished Acting Award, and the production itself received a total of five LADCC Awards. Earlier, Chamberlain starred at the Ahmanson in Shakespeare's "Richard II," which later went on to be acclaimed at the Eisenhower Theatre of the Kennedy Center.

Dorothy McGuire began her distinguished career in the theatre with John Barrymore in "My Dear Children."

SALTWATER SCHNOZ — Sea World has added three male elephant seals to its collection of marine mammals. Largest of the seals, elephant seals are named for their huge noses, which resemble elephant trunks. They are between seven and eight years old, and although weighing more than 2,000 pounds each, they have achieved only about half of their adult weight. The elephant seals will appear in the Seal and Penguin Circus at Sea World after six months of training.

Schools exhibit underway at fair

POMONA — School days are back in mid-summer, at least for the schools exhibit at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Like other fair attractions, the schools exhibit is gearing up for the 17-day run of the exposition, Sept. 12 through 28.

The theme of the 1975 showing is "Images of Opportunity."

More than 4,000 items have been submitted to this year's exhibit from nearly 40 school districts and more than 200 schools. Fair officials estimate this represents the work of about 4,300 students in grades ranging from kindergarten through adult education.

Also participating with displays are local universities, colleges and community colleges.

Any work done as part of a school project is eligible for entry in the exhibit by the school or district. Entries using a wide variety of media are accepted, including ceramics, painting, models, photography, yarn crafts, woodworking, metal sculpture, papier mache and creative writing.

A feature of this year's Schools Exhibit is a display of "flat art" entitled "Faces of America."

'La Traviata' casting set

The West End Opera Association will present "La Traviata" Nov. 15 in Gardiner Spring Auditorium and has appointed Charles Ross Perlee to conduct this Giuseppe Verdi favorite.

Auditions for the cast will be held Sunday at Merton E. Hill Auditorium, 5th and Euclid Avenue, Ontario from 1 to 5 p.m.

For further information please call 982-3149.

Whitmore in final role

The original star of Samuel Gallu's play, "Give 'Em Hell Harry!" — James Whitmore — will make his final in-person stage appearance in the role this season and next with the 18-performance Ahmanson Theatre engagement, opening Aug. 25 through Sept. 13.

Producers Gallu and Thomas J. McErlane have announced that Ed Nelson will take over the role in a new coast-to-coast tour, starting in late September.

Mail orders continue to be received at the Music Center through Aug. 4.
